

Meet Joe Banko: Building Dreams One Project at a Time

Joe Banko is a seasoned professional with a passion for construction and a deep commitment to turning dreams into reality. With a career spanning over a decade, Joe has dedicated his life to the art of building and remodeling, and now, he's back to where it all started - Wilmington.

Joe's journey in the construction world began in 2005 when he first picked up a hammer to frame and remodel houses in the Wilmington area. This early experience laid the foundation for a career marked by ambition and determination. Eager to further his knowledge and skills, he pursued a degree in Construction Engineering and Management at North Carolina State University. Graduating from NC State opened doors to exciting opportunities in the construction industry.

Joe's career took a turn towards telecom construction, where he managed significant accounts and led multiple teams of dedicated employees. His exceptional leadership skills and knack for handling complex projects earned him recognition and success in the field. He played a pivotal role in expanding the business to the West Coast, establishing a new branch office, and aiding in the rapid growth of a start-up contractor.

Yet, despite his accomplishments in the telecom sector, Joe's heart remained firmly rooted in residential contracting. His passion for turning a client's vision into a tangible reality never waned. With a deep desire to return to his roots in Wilmington, he founded Bliss Property Company.

Now, Joe is excited to be working on a hyper-local level, focusing on the Wilmington area. His mission is clear: to bring his client's project dreams to fruition. Whether it's crafting a cozy home or breathing new life into an existing space, Joe is dedicated to delivering high-quality results that exceed expectations.

Outside of his professional life, Joe is an avid reader of personal development books and content, always seeking ways to grow and improve. When he's not devoting his time to Bliss Property Company, he's off on adventures with his wife and kids, exploring the diverse landscapes of North Carolina, from the picturesque coastal areas to the majestic mountains, and everywhere in between.

In Joe Banko, you'll find a seasoned construction expert with a relentless commitment to delivering top-notch results and a genuine passion for the craft. He's not just building structures; he's building dreams, one project at a time, and leaving a legacy of quality and excellence in the Wilmington area.
